"My apples are of a better quality, this year, than ever before," said W. L. Kent, Thursday, Mr. Kent and his son have a 135 acre apple orchard south of Mexico and have gathered several thousands of bushels of the fruit. They shipped a carload of Ben Davis to Marshalltown, Ia., this week, and have 2,000 bushels of that variety in store in this city. They also have 500 bushels of the Gano variety. The Kent orchard is one of the best in this section and the trees are carefully pruned and sprayed. Farmers from all over the county have been buying apples at the orchard for some time.

James Hamilton, of south of town, is in Springfield, Ky., for Thurman and Peters sale of saddle horses. A Montgomery country farmer near New Florence built a large barn this summer and has filled it with a crop of tobacco.

Cooper county will hold a big celebration at Booneville in the nature of a "round-up" Nov. 4th and 5th. Robert Kerr shipped 47 head of white faced stockers from Kansas City this week. A. J. Botts also shipped in 450 lambs from the same market.

Col. J. T. Johnson has received the first shipment of Western lambs in this vicinity this year. He brought in 1,050 Montana sheep from Omaha, and Ashby Botts received 450 sheep from Colorado. Col. Johnson is one of the most extensive sheep feeders in this section.

A Ladonia farmer is experimenting this year with Japanese millet and has raised a good crop. The millet resembles "cat tails," the stalks grow from 8 to 10 feet high and the heads are from 8 to 14 inches in length.

S. H. Harrison, southwest of Auxvase, sold a pair of mules, a horse and a mare Monday to Green & Son of Centralia, at $120 for the two. One was a yearling and the other two years old. Mr. Harrison bought a pair of suckling mule colts last week from Fritz Hoffman at $80, a draft horse colt at Johnson Bros.' sale and a draft colt of M. M. Brown of Mexico. The two latter animals cost him $79.—Auxvase Review.

James Brown, a LaGrange dairyman, has put in a 30-cow power milking machine that is the talk of Lewis County, being the first in the locality.

Fenewald Bros., the extensive Audrain County, Mo., cattle feeders were on the market Tuesday with three loads of good fed heifers which sold fully up to expectations and brought a satisfactory price to their owners. The consignment included 89 head, averaging 786 pounds that sold to the Independent Packing Co. for $8.75.

While not fancy heifers, still these were in good condition and showed plainly the effects of good feeding and careful handling. They were consigned for the market on a ration of shelled corn and Lyon's champion Molasses Feed.—St. Louis Live Stock Reporter.

Hearing familiar quacks in his back yard, Sam White of Jefferson City investigated and learned that seven ducks stolen from him several nights before had been returned. Mr. White had advertised his intention of prosecuting "a certain party" if the loss were permanent.

At the Sikeston fair and farm products show, prizes on apples were won by a Mr. Kornegger.

L. ROY FERRIS

From Dr. J. B. Hawkins.

Mexico, Mo., Oct. 27th, 1914.

Will you be so indulgent as to give us a little space in your excellent paper, that we may chronicle a few reminiscences and give a hurried review of our experience, as it recurs to us, after many decades have past. Read between the lines and see if you can't clearly interpret the meaning of all this political agitation—what is the real meaning and intent of it all. Let us see. Go back with us to the 50's, 40's and 50's of the antebellum days when the political parties under the various names were as numerous as the number is today. These were in opposition to the Democratic party, the Federal party, Free Soil party, Know Nothing party, the White Party and many others, all claiming to be the party of the people. About 1854, all these so-called parties merged and called themselves the Republican party. In 1860, elected Abe Lincoln as President. Keep your finger on the spot, and listen. Thirty-five years before Abe Lincoln, in August 1825, issued his Emancipation Proclamation, Horace Greeley, Wendell Phillips, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Henry Ward Beecher, William Seward and Charles Sumner, with others of the same intent and purpose, met in Washington, in Convention, and after much time spent discussing pro and con to the best plans of accomplishing the emancipation of the slaves, for that was the only object in their minds, they adjourned without agreeing on any special plan, when Charles Sumner uttered these immortal words, "Gentlemen, Agitate! Agitate!" and this agitation resulted in the most cruel, devastating and bloody war, lasting four and a half years, leaving in its wake carnage, poverty, destitution, costing the lives of thousands of old men and boys—widows and orphans left to struggle for, and to eek out a scanty living through all these intervening years. It has taken more than fifty years to reconstruct this ruined country. At the close of the war, General Grant said, "Let us have peace" but the Shiloh of "Agitate" was kept up by the cry of carpet baggers. Office seekers swarmed to the South as numerous as the frogs of Egypt to get the votes of the newly enfranchised negroes and many of them succeeded. Owing to the disturbance between the different political factions that kept the whole South in such an unsettled state of affairs, that it has taken at least forty years to reconstruct and establish business on a firm and satisfactory basis—and now fellow-citizens, we have just reached the gist of the whole matter and the man or woman of ordinary intelligence that cannot see the skeleton in the closet or the negro in the wood pile is dull of comprehension and a hopeless student of history. We see the wreck of the Republican party, the Progressive Republican party, the Bull Moose Party, Single Tax party, Temperance and Local Option. Last, but not least, Woman's Suffrage party, and again, what is the excitement? The whole country, from Maine to Louisiana, and from the Lakes to the Gulf, is being visited by every species of public speakers. The little old wrinkled cronies and over-aged spinsters, all the way from Old England via New England, to catch the cue and on to the Show Me State of Missouri, have come to instruct the citizens of the wild, woolly West, when and what for to vote, and like the Witch of Endor would say to her patients, "Gape, Sinner, and swallow, and ask no questions," and we have heard it said by many of our Democratic voters that some of the Representatives from the South and even Missouri, with their households, have joined to crusade for Woman's Suffrage. Don't forget that it has been the effort of some of the Eastern and Northern Congressmen and Senators to reduce the number of Representatives from the Southern States. Don't forget, if you give the ballot to the two millions of negro women of the South, you will have no further trouble to reduce the number of the Representatives in Congress from the new Democratic States. A man is naturally stupid who can't read the hand-writing on the wall, where the hydro-headed monster of politics is crawling toward to reap the reward for his labors. An old sensible Irish woman, a few days since, gave us a few solid chunks of Woman's Philosophy. She said the most untidy and neglected kitchens and homes in the limit of her acquaintance were presided over by the Suffrage Women, whose hands have never been calloused by the use of the broom handle. Good old sister, come again.

Most respectfully,
J. B. HAWKINS.

You are invited to read the communications in the Ledger by Dr. J. B. Hawkins, opposing Woman Suffrage. Dr. Hawkins is the only citizen of the county that has come out in the press opposed to this proposition and his main argument is much the same one used by those who are making an organized fight against Equal Suffrage. The Southern States are all Democratic. When you enfranchise the women in a Democratic State you increase the Democratic majority. When you enfranchise the women in a Republican State, you will, of course, increase the Republican majority. The poor old negro women are a great bugaboo for some people. There was a Civil War about the negro men and we suppose there might be a war about the negro women.

We notice the negro men do not seem to cut so much ice in the Southern states when it comes to voting. Why should there be such a scare about the negro women. It is all right for your wife to work all day in the kitchen with a negro woman but it is a terrible thing for her to have to vote on the same day.

After glancing over Dr. Hawkins' communication and knowing that the Doctor as a minister of the gospel was not interested in the fight against Woman Suffrage on account of the danger to the dominance of politics by the saloon power, we were very much impressed with the following from the Kansas City Times regarding the fight against Equal Suffrage now being made in the State of Nebraska.

"Saloon Fear Women's Power." The real, vital opposition to suffrage in Nebraska comes from the liquor interests. Omaha is the home of several large breweries and distilleries, and the owners of these, always meddlers in Nebraska politics, have thrown themselves into the fight against giving women the ballot. They say that it will put them out of business, as they believe the women are certain to vote prohibition into Nebraska at the first opportunity. Floods of literature are being sent out and in each community where there are saloons, an organized effort is being made to defeat suffrage.

But the brewers were not content to use the ordinary weapons of a campaign. When the battle began, the suffragists of Omaha enrolled several of the leading women of the city. A number of these happened to be the wives of bankers and business men. These bankers and business men were warned, say the suffragists, that if their wives did not withdraw from the suffrage association, the business boycott would be employed, and every interest that the brewers could bring into line to back up the boycott would be enlisted. Immediately there were several resignations from the suffrage club, and for weeks meetings had to be held in the parlors of loyal supporters in order to avoid interference and annoyance.

Mr. Bryan is campaigning this day for the Democratic ticket, asking its election as the only possible way to induce the Wilson Administration and he is also supporting the suffrage amendment.

APPEAL OF MISSOURI WOMEN. The women of Missouri appeal to you, the fair-minded men of Missouri, for a fair consideration of the Amendment giving women the right to vote. The appeal is made to the men of the smaller towns and the country districts. The vicious elements have planned to defeat the woman suffrage amendment by placing the last two amendments on the ballot. They tell us that the men of Missouri cannot tell a good amendment from a bad one and to defeat these last two outrageous amendments will vote against all of them.

But the women of Missouri have faith in the men of Missouri. We have told you that our amendment is No. 13, that it is the shortest amendment on the ballot. We have explained to you how suffrage works in the states that have it. We have shown by our words and our work that we want the vote. We have told you how it will help Missouri for her women to vote. We have asked you to give Missouri women the same political privileges and rights enjoyed by Kansas and Illinois women. Now, we make our final appeal, that, on November 3rd, you look for Amendment No. 13 and scratch No. 14. Show the women of Missouri that their men have opinions and can decide between the good and the bad. Do not let our splendid fight be lost through trickery!
